Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 5-7, 9-12, 14-18 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rem et al (US 5,555,642) previously cited. Rem discloses a process for upgrading low-quality wood comprising the steps of: a) subjecting the substrate to radio frequency (RF) energy in a constrained environment having a pressure above atmospheric for a time sufficient to heat at least part of the moisture contained in the substrate to a temperature of or above the boiling point of water at ambient pressure; (col. 4, lines 5-36); and b) reducing pressure in the constrained environment in a manner causing the moisture within the substrate to boil (col. 4, lines 42-47 and col. 6, lines 4-9 and 15-19).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rem et al (US 5,555,642), in view of Neogi et al (US 20040258941) both previously cited. Rem discloses substantially all features of the claimed invention except the lignocellulosic substrate is concurrently or subsequently impregnated with a composition. Neogi discloses a lignocellulosic substrate is concurrently or subsequently impregnated with a composition (par. 0008). It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize in Rem a lignocellulosic substrate is concurrently or subsequently impregnated with a composition as taught by Neogi in order to treat the object to have a greater decay resistant.

Response to Amendment

5. Applicant's arguments filed 11/12/2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

6. Applicant argues that Rem's reference does not disclose the moisture within the substrate to boil. This is not persuasive. Rem teach a method for softening wood by heating it in an autoclave and controlled and gradually depressurizing of the autoclave to atmospheric condition causes moisture in the wood inherently boiling at 100°C atmospheric condition (col. 6, lines 1-9). Further, it is well known that the temperature is boiling at 100°C, pressure at 1 bar, and Rem also discloses the drying is carried out at a temperature in the range of from about 100°C to about 220°C, and pressure from 1 bar to about 20bar (col. 6, lines 48-51). Therefore, Rem's reference still read on the claimed limitations.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
